NOT ALLOWED DAMAGES. One of the Italian Lynching Cases Dismissed at New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, April 7 .- Judge Parlange, in the United States Circuit Court, has dismissed one of the Italian suits brought against the city as a result of the Italian lynching. In most of the previous cases the Italians were given damages, the proceedings being before other judges, however. The suit decided to-day was that of the widow of Monasterio against the city for $30,000 damages. The city filed an exception of no cause of action, and this morning Judge Parlange sustained the ex-ception and dismissed the suit.

The bride is a true Southern beauty, slightly above medium height, with a superb figure and a profusion of golden hair. She entered the church leaning on the arm of her father and attended by her elder sister, Miss Eilen Sterling, as maid of honor, and Miss May Handy, of Richmond, as bridesmaid. The ushers preceding the party were Messrs. Harry and Yates Pennington, cousins of the bride; James B. Tailor, cousin of the groom; Morton J. Henry, of Philadelphia; Rowan Baldwin and David Witherspoon, of New York. The wedding was after the English style, the groom and his best man, J. And Others Seriously Injured by an Explosion of Powder.

Fireworks Factory of Romaine Brothers, at Petersburg, Va., Blown Up and the Debris Burned.

BOILER EXPLOSION FATAL

Four Men Killed and a Number Hurt at Patricksburg, Ind.

Three Austrians Crushed to Death and Fourteen Bruised and Cut by a Premature Blast at Brinton, Pa.

PETERSBURG, Va., April 7 .- An exolosion of powder in the fireworks factory of Romaine Brothers, in this city, this afternoon, resulted in the death of eleven persons and injury to others. Just prior to the explosion, Charles N. Romaine, the senior member of the firm; John Bland, the senior member of the tobacco manufacturing firm of Bland Brothers & Wright; Capt. James Tosh, a prominent citizen, and Charles Bland, of the firm of Bland Brothers, were engaged in conversation in the office of the fireworks factory. Fire was discovered in the works about 3 o'clock, and these gentlemen went to the assistance of the employes and tried to extinguish it by throwing buckets of water on it An alarm had been turned in and, just as Chief Engineer Farley, of the department, drove into the yard, an explosion occurred About fifteen minutes later there was second explosion. These explosions were distinctly heard over a mile. John Bland and Charles Romaine were killed instant ly and their bodies horribly mangled. Both were members of the City Council. Chief Engineer Farley was fatally injured. Capt. Tosh's body was burned almost beyond recognition. Few in the factory at the time of the second explosion escaped death or injury. The dead are: CHARLES N. ROMAINE. CAPT. JAMES L. TOSH. JOHN B. BLAND. JAMES ROWLAND. ROBERT ROWLAND. WILLIAM TRAYLOR. EDWARD TRAYLOR. JAMES BRYANT. QUINCY LIVESAY.

JAMES W. PERKINS. THOMAS WOODFOLK, colored. The wounded are: Edward Farley, Edward Grave, William Parker, Charles Wells, Charles Short, Walter Nunally, Estith Beasley, Samuel E. Druey (colored),

The fire originated in that part of the works where powder for whistle bombs was made. The flames were quickly communicated to the other building used for the manufacture of fireworks, and there were frequent small explosions. It was reported that there was a large quantity of powder stored-exactly where no one appears to know-in these buildings, and kept the crowd from venturing too near the fire. On the opposite side of the street from the fireworks buildings, all of which were frame structures, was the trunk factory of Messrs, Romaine Brothers, and close by were the large brick tobacco factory of Bland Bros. & Wright and an old whisky distillery now unused. All these buildings, with the stock and machinery, were burned to the ground, as also a large quantity of lumber. There were three explosiors. The first was a small affair. As soon as it occurred Messrs. Romaine, Bland and Tosh rushed into the drying room, and there the second and fatal explosion occurred, and they were killed. A number of girls employed in the fireworks factory escaped just before the second explosion. A public meeting will be held to-morrow at the academy, at the call of Mayor Collier.

SPENCER, Ind., April 7 .-- The boiler was an old one and had been used for three years after being condemned. It had been leaking steam and was patched in many places. For three days the fireman, Louis Weber, had thought the work of keeping up steam too heavy and he decided to pin down the safety valve from which the greatest leakage was observable. This he did this morning at 9:30 o'clock. The mill was in readiness to start and the first log was placed on the carriage when the explosion occurred. The mill building was blown to atoms and the heads of Rhinehart and the elder Weber were blown off and their bodies and that of Shaffer were frightfully mangled, being unrecognizable Lewis Weber received injuries from which died within a few hours, and John Shepherd's death is hourly expected. The accident happened in the face of a hill close by the new Westinghouse works at Brinton. The contractors, Gwinner & Co., of Allegheny, were blasting the earth and rock there for filling in the foundations of the new buildings. Owen Dugan, the injured foreman, was in charge of a gang of sixty laborers working on the hill-side. He had charge of the blasting. A charge of powder with a little dynamite charge of powder with a little dynamite had been put in the first thing when the men began work. The blasts are always set off by batteries. One would not explode and Dugan began "drilling in" to put a fresh quantity of powder on top of the unexploded charge. While he and his three assistants were working at this on top of the bank the charge went off. Ten feet below the gang was working and the explosion buried the men under tons of rock and earth loosened by the charge.

AFFAIRS AT HONOLULU

Japanese Becoming a Disturbing Factor in Hawaiian Politics.

They Have Grown Bold in the Presence of Two of Their War Ships and Are Demanding the Right to Vote.

HONOLULU, April 1.-The Japanese question is the all-absorbing topic of interest here. Since the arrival of the new Japanese war ship, the Tackhiho, the Japanese have taken on a much more independent air than formerly and are openly claiming the right to a voice in the affairs of government. The war ship Naniawa went to Hilo, another Hawaiian town recently, carrying the Japanese minister, Mr. Fujy, with her. The minister has not yet returned and is said to be conferring with the Japanese contract laborers. As there are many thousands of these laborers on the islands, the people are becoming alarmed as to what the outcome may be. It is surmised that if the Japanese insist on the voting franchise, and it is refused them, they will try to take matters into their own hands and compel the provisional government to recognize them. Should such a contingency occur, it is more than likely that the Chinese would join forces with the Japanese, and the whites of the islands would stand a poor chance of victory. A prominent Japanese official connected with the legation here said to the Associated Press correspondent a few days ago: "The Japanese here want the franchise and they are going to get it. If they cannot, our government is going to take a hand in the matter. We have two big men-of-war here and we do not intend to let our interests be trampled upon by the provisional government. The Portuguese have also made a demand on their minister for a warship. They claim they are in fear of an uprising in the near future and that in case of victory for the Royalists they would be dis-Politically, matters have been quiescent since the latest advices, and nothing important has transpired. The American Union party organization that has taken the place of the old Annexation Club, has held an election on this island, Oahu, for the purpose of appointing delegates to the central committee to regulate the affairs of the party. A number of extreme radicals have been elected to this committee, and it is anticipated that the new organization will be a thorn in the side of the government. The American League, which was supposed to have amalgamated with the Union party, still holds independent meetings. At a meeting of the councils held on the 29th inst. the Minister of Finance introduced a new salary list r government employes that will save the country about $70,000. It had been found absolutely necessary to cut down expenses as much as pos sible, as the revenues are decreasing. The regitration of voters for the coming election of delegates to the constitutional convention has commenced. The natives are not registering, and it is said they are being made to think that in the case of a restoration their lives would be the for-feit in the event of their taking oaths to support the provisional government.

A ROYALIST'S VIEWS.

Princess Kauilani's Guardian Discusses the Situation in Hawaii. NEW YORK, April 7.-Theophilus Davies, the guardian of Princess Kauilani, of Hawall, who sailed for England to-day, said to a reporter before leaving for England: "The present situation in Hawaii is very grave. The provisional government is nonplussed. It does not know what to do. It was positively certain of annexation or it would never have taken any steps in that direction. It is now acting under the direction of the American League, but the best people are opposed to the provisional government. All its legislation is enacted by the committee of public safety, which was appointed during the middle of the revolution. The committee is all powerful for it makes laws to suit its own pleasure. Of this committee of fifteen, five have resigned since the original organization and their places have been filled by appointment of the friends of the other ten. "A telegram which I have just received from my agent in San Francisco says the government has called a convention for the second day of May and that because it is in such a minority it has decided to give votes to persons who have been residents for a year provided they will take an oath to support the government and oppose the restoration of the monarchy. I am of the firm belief that this oath will not be taken by four-fifths of those whom it is intended for. They will have to satisfy both the natives and foreigners."

Against Annexation. ANN ARBOR, Mich., April 7 .- Fifteen hundred persons attended a debate last night between three of the university students and three students of Northwestern University. Governor Rich presided. The question was: "Resolved, That it ought to be the policy of the federal government to bring about the annexation of the Hawaiian Islands." The affirmative was urged by the Michigan men. The Northwestern studen s won on a record of 1,614 to 1,610.

the boarding house of C. L. Puckett were poisoned, last evening, with coffee which had been doctored with arsenic. Dr. James Gashell, one of the boarders, seventy years old, living at Stillwater, Minn., who was in Danville for treatment, died about 3 o'clock this morning. The other five were | posed to have used the money in speculatsaved through the efforts of Dr. J. M. Guy. Immediately after supper every person who had taken coffee was seized with violent burning sensations in the stomach. During the night they were violently Ill. A few weeks ago the proprietor of the house found a box or rough on rats and for safe keeping placed it over the kitchen door. As soon as the boarders became sick the box was examined and it was found that half of its contents had been used. Examination of the stomach of Gaskell disclosed the fact that he had been poisoned with arsenic The coroner's jury will investigate the case Monday. It is thought some one in the kitchen had a spite against one of the boarders. The persons at the table who had taken tea or milk were not affected.

Troubles of a Pie Company. CHICAGO, April 7 .- John Sage, a stockholder in the Chicago Pie Company, a concern with $100,000 capital stock, has asked for a receiver for the institution. Sage says that William Thompson, another stockholder, plied him with whisky until he was intoxicated and thus secured the transfer to himself of $30,000 of Sage's stock without compensation. Because of Thompson's refusal to return the stock a receiver is asked.

AN ITHACA DENTIST'S SUICIDE.

Despondent Over Charges Connecting Him with the Students' Outrage.

ITAHCA, N. Y., April 7 .- A phase of the recent Cornell University poisoning case developed this evening in the suicide of Dr. W. I. Brenizer, a prosperous dentist, who was found dead in his boarding house. All the circumstances tend to show that Brenizer killed himself late last evening. His friends say the act was due to despondency and meditation over the recent Cornell banquet tragedy, which occurred in the same block in which his office is situated, and directly over it. A letter addressed to Charles W. White, of this city, was found on the desk. After stating he had been worrying over a secret which was known to but a few people in Ithaca, he declares that the allegations made against him of complicity in the chlorine tragedy are false. "I have never seen those jugs or chemicals," the letter reads, "nor any other ele ment used in the deed. For six months previous to the occurrence I had not been in the room where the chlorine was prepared. My hands never touched these ele-ments of destruction, and I hope my past life will prove to the doubting mind a better opinion of me. The animate chlorine within me was taught long ago to realize the inahimate chlorine without. My past life is free of crime." The letter then goes on to direct that his body be buried in Ithaca, his office effects to be sold and the money be sent to Mrs. M. F. Wilson, of Akron, O., his former home. Brenizer's parents are both dead.

Agent Woodson's Report of the Oklahoma Uprising That Was so Grossly Exaggerated by Correspondents.

WASHINGTON, April 7 .- A full report of the trouble between the Cheyenne and Arapahoe Indians and the cattlemen in Oklahoma was received at the Bureau of Indian Affairs to-day from Capt, W. R. Woodson, in charge of the agency. It sets forth that Chief Hill acted in self-defense in killing W. S. Breeding, who had first shot the chief. Captain Woodson says that the Indians have not been disposed to maliciously injure any of the white prople, and that he is doing all in his power to encourage the Indians to remain at home and work on their allotments and to avoid friction with the whites. A courier who carried messages to Captain Woodson from the upper Washita reported that he had been intercepted by a company of fifty or sixty white men, who threatened to kill him unless he showed the letters he was carrying. Chief Hill told the circumstances of the trouble and the shooting of himself. The majority of the Washita Indians, according to Superintendent Segar, of the Segar Indian School, at Segar, O. T., whose report has been forwarded, are now awaiting the arrival of beef, and have stated that they intend to take no further action, but will leave the settlement of the matter to the government. Farmer Hammon's full report to Captain Woodson, dated at Red Moon district, April 1, is as follows: "A double tragedy occurred here to-day, in which one wnite man lost his life and another had his arm broken, and an Indian, Chief Hill, was shot so badly that he probably will die. The white man killed was W. S. Breeding, who lived on Turkey creek, about ten miles from where the shooting occurred. The man wounded was T. S. Carter, who lives on Oak creek. Breeding went to the camp of Chief Hill and claimed an unbranded pony. Chief Hill told him to take the pony but leave the rope with which it was hitched. When Chief Hill went to take the rope off the white man drew his revolver and shot him twice in the right breast. Chief Hill then got his gun and shot the man twice. The second shot killed him. He then fired one shot at the other man, breaking his arm. This is Chief Hill's statement of the affair. Carter went home, and I did not get to see him. When I left the place a deputy United States marshal was in charge of the body awaiting the arrival of a coroner. The shooting occurred on Little Panther creek about ten miles from Red Moon. I had persuaded all of the Indians of this district to go upon their allotments, and they were all at work trying to get in a good crop of corn. I am afraid this occurrence will cause them to come out again. I think Chief Hill is mortally wounded. One shot went through him; the other lodged in him. Both bullets passed into the right lung. He has his left Senator Hoar Calls Attention to Britain's Bering Sea Bill.

Unless the Act Is Changed He Believes Canadian Poachers May Destroy the Seals Without Fear of Arrest.

VIEWS OF SENATOR MORGAN

Statesmen Protest Western Against the Chinese Treaty.

Mitchell and Others in Favor of Considering It in Open Session-Harris Anxious to Push the Tariff Bill.

WASHINGTON, April 7 .- This is the first Saturday session of the Senate during the regular session of Congress. There was some expectancy in the Senate that the opposition to the tariff might be manifested in a manner similar to that of yesterday, but the journal was read and approved and routine business progressed without inter-

Senator Hoar called the attention of Senator Morgan to a dispatch in the morning papers saying that the British Parliament had passed an act intended to carry out that provisions of the award of the Bering sea tribunal, but according to which ships that might have sailed without notice of the passage of the bill should not be liable to seizure. He thought if the dispatch correctly reported the text of the act of Parliament it was simply an evasion of the provisions of the award of the tribunal, and would allow Canadian vessels which might have sailed without notice to destroy hundreds of thousands of seals without fear of arrest by simply claiming that they did not know the act of Parliament had actually passed. He asked Mr. Morgan as to the truth of the dispatch, and, believing that it was true, some supplemental legislation should be passed by Congress.

Mr. Morgan agreed that the Senator from Massachusetts was quite right as to his interpretation of the dispatch and the danger of the extermination of the Alaskan seal herd which would follow the operations of the reported act of Parliament. He explained, however, that some two weeks or more ago Sir Julian Pauncefote, the British embassador, had submitted to the State Department the draft of an act of Parliament which, to the best of his recollection, corresponded exactly with the language of that quoted in the dispatch. There were some features of this proposed act which were opposed (he used the word advisedly) to the fair interpretation of the provisions of the awards, and those provisions of the proposed act were firmly rejected by the Secretary of State and the British government was so informed About the same time he learned from the newspapers that a bill had been introduced into Parliament for the purpose of giving effect to the award of the Paris tribunal, but whether it corresponded with that submitted by Sir Julian Pauncefote to the State Department he did not know. Shortly afterwards he learned that the bill had been withdrawn for the purpose of remodeling it and he still hoped that such was a fact, and that the text contained in the dispatch was that of the unamended bill which had been sent out by mistake. "I have no doubt," he declared that the government of the United States will find itself in a full state of preparation and with a full determination that all the benefits and advantages of this award shall be realized by our government. It may be that we did not get in the award every principle of law for which we contended decided in our favor, but we got all the necessary regulations which are requisite for the protection of the seal herds which belong to us. Good faith on the part of Great Britain requires that she shall come forward and insist strenuously and as honestly as we intend to insist upon the carrying out of all the provisions of that award.

The incident closed with an indorsement by Senator Gray of the belief expressed by Mr. Morgan that the bill mentioned in the dispatch was the original bill which had been withdrawn for alteration. At 1:20 p. m. the Senate went into executive session, and at 4:20 adjourned.

THE CHINESE TREATY.

Several Senators Favor Its Considers ation in Open Session. WASHINGTON, April 7.-The Senate considered the Chinese treaty indirectly for two hours in executive session this afternoon. A motion was made by Senator Mitchell to debate the treaty in open session, but without accomplishing anything. There was more or less incidental reference to the merits of the treaty as such, but the debate turned largely upon the propriety of discussing the question with open doors, so that the world at large might know what had transpired, and the Senators favorable to this proposition consumed the greater part of the time of the session. Senators Mitchell, Perkins and Stewart were the principal speakers. They based their arguments upon the importance of the subject to their constituents, and dwelt upon the injustice of such enactment as that proposed without giving the people who were so largely interested full information as to the reason for the proceedings. They displayed more or less feeling over the ques-

Senator Perkins said that the country is at present in great distress, and stated that there were fifty thousand white men out of employment in California. It would be a great injustice at any time, especially at such a time as the present, to open tha doors to Chinese immigration, as this treaty would do if ratified by the Sanate. He wald it would nullify all the anti-Chinese leatslation for ten years if accepted, and he thought that the country should know the facts as well as hear the arguments in favor of the treaty. Senator Mitchell is an advocate of ope executive sessions on all occasions, a spoke in very much the same strain, bu elaborated upon the propriety of consider! ing the treaty in open session. He called attention to the fact that the Chinese question in all its bearings had recently been discussed in both houses of Congress, and said that there was no likelihood of anything being added at this time that would be especially offensive to the Chinese. There was no more reason why offenses should be taken at utterances on a treaty with any nation than at the same utterances applying to a bill affecting the same nation. He fisheries treaty had been considered in open Senator Stewart wanted the widest publicity in discussing the subject, and spoke in general terms about the undesirability of Chinese immigration. Senator Chandler asked him if it would not be in the interest of silver if relations could be established with China which would extend the commerce of the United States in that country, whereupon the Nevada Senator branched off into a somewhat general discussion of the silver subject. Senators Morgan, Gray and Palmer all spoke briefly upon the other side of the question, devoting themselves mainly to the general merits of instanced as a precedent the fact that the Senator Morgan, who had voted for the Scott law, made a conciliatory speech, putting his advocacy on the ground that the ratification of the treaty would tend to open country, and saying that his sympathies were with the people who were trying to keep cheap labor out of the country. But he did not believe that the present treaty would have the effect of inviting the Chinese here. Senator Gray said the present
